

Terrace Amongst The Trees

Project Profile

The clients' desire for the site was to create a backyard "oasis" where they could entertain friends and relatives. This residence presented an exciting challenge in residential site design. Facing such constraints as significant grade change, a wetlands buffer line and limited space, a successful collaboration between homeowners and Landscape Architect resulted in a peaceful and secluded retreat amongst the trees.

The pergola provides broken shade and defines a space, giving the feeling of an open outdoor room. A wisteria vine was added for seasonal interest.

The scale is small and intimate. Respect for the environment was a design imperative.
